INTRODUCTION.

This book is printed from an old account book now in the office of the County Clerk, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. How it ever got there is not known, nor why,—for it is not a record of the affairs of the County, but there it has been for many years. It is not in good condition, several pages having been torn in two, and some torn out. Its contents are of considerable interest,—for example among the accounts therein recorded we find a tolerably complete list of what the people living in and around Poughkeepsie, ate, drank, who made their shoes, what clothes they wore, etc., and with the mention of these needs of their daily life is the cost of each article,—this in itself is of value, for it makes a fairly complete price list of the necessaries of life at that time, and while the historian mentions the greater actions and doings of the people whose lives he records, he seldom informs us concerning the petty things of every day life, these being so evident at the time that they are not mentioned by the contemporary writer.

The earliest entry in this account book appears to be of the year 1735, and one of the latest is a record of the death and burial of Cathrena, wife of Francis Filkin, in 1781.

Besides the many pages of accounts of debtor and creditor, there are other entries of interest,—a list of marriages,—a list of the Filkin family,—copies of deeds,—and a copy of a mysterious prophecy, in which the prophet has enveloped his message in the requisite amount of assertive uncertainty.

Francis Filkin, the writer of this book, was born, presumably in Poughkeepsie, on Oct. 24. 1704, and baptised by Domine Dubois on Dec. 20. His wife Cathrena Lewis was born Sept. 15, 1702. They were married on Sept. 21. 1733., she being at that time the widow of Pieter van Kleeck. Francis Filkin appears to have been a farmer, to have kept a country store, and to have been a man of substance. From other records he appears to have been a deacon of the Dutch Church at Poughkeepsie in 1741, and on p 54 of this book is mention of his serving as collector for the church.

He states that during November, 1746, he moved to NewYork, having leased his land in Dutchess County. He mentions that he was an Alderman of New York in 1753; and in the History of New York, by Thos. Jones, edited by E. Floyd de Lancy, in Vol. 2, p 419, he is mentioned as being Alderman from the South Ward in New York City in 1776, and on p. 420 it is suggested that he and Benj. Blagge were the two Aldermen who were not 'strictly loyal' to England.

It is not certain when he died, nor is the place of his burial known. It may be remarked in conclusion that Mr. Filkin little thought as he slowly misspelled his way through the pages of this account book, that he was writing for posterity, and that posterity would not only be grateful for his labors, but would cause him to appear in print,—long after his troubles were over and he had been laid to rest.

TRANSLATION OF PROPHECY ON PAGE 65

A very old and wonderful prophecy about Rome taken out of a very old book belonging to a church in the year 1510 by the Rev. Bartholomeus in life priest of Hensen near Leeuwarden, after whose writing the Rev. Henderick Schouenburgh, minister of the word of God has copied the same in the year 1572, after whose hand the same is copied by the minister L. Lindinnus in the year 1589 and later has been placed in our hand by an amateur.

proi When the sins among the people become plentiful such as hatred, murder, heresy, then shall the princes, noblemen, rich, civil officers and their servants be driven out of their lands and chased from state to state, and then shall the old enemy force on changes of morals and laws, then the chefs shall be robbed of their occupations and the clergy shall be in prickle besides the Catholic faith and the church of Rome over the sins heaped up.

The Lion, hungry, shall lose nearly all his glory under the discord with his own company, shall mourn his love and shall lose his freshness; then shall the Lily control the best part of the earth against the seed of the earth and shall be moved and shall come in their land and stand on the fields among the thorns of his kingdom and trace the son of the lion in vain with deceit. He shall find grace by the lily, by the son of man the bearing in short the wild animals and the eagle shall come with a great army among the seed of the lion devoid of help. In the next year the eagle shall come from the Eastern part with a great heap of young ones; in that time the armies shall become divided and there shall be in this part of the world a terrible fright. One day men shall flee farther than ever was seen before, for in that day shall be a flood of blood, and behold the lily shall lose her crown with all those who favor her. For the eagle shall rob it, nevertheless the son of man shall be crowned therewith, because the ruler of the world shall bow down to the earth and the great of this world shall be destroyed by the beast without head, others shall walk to the moon but in vain, too late shall they wake up. The son of man with the eagle shall reign on earth who crossing over the seas shall receive the victory.

Can anything in the world be more short more plain and more Easy for a Good God to require his creature man to believe and for a plain honest man to believe and submit to upon the Evidence following

1 upon the prophecies of the prophets all along from moses to malachy still Growing brighter and brighter as the day of owr Lords appearance Grew nearer and nearer all Exaxtly fullfiled in the person of owr Lord Christ
2 upon the salutation of the blessed virgin by an Angel from Heaven
3 proclaiming the birth of owr Lord to the Shepards by a Chorus of Angels from Heaven
4 his astonishing wisdom at twelve tho of a mean aducation
5 the visible descent of the holy Ghost upon him at his baptism
6 the hearing of a voice from Heaven saying this is my beloved son hear yea him
7 his holy unsinning Life
8 his incomparable doctrine beyond all the philosophers and phrophets that ever were 9 the miracles he wrought
10 his resurrextion from the dead
11 his visible ascent in to Heaven and Lastly the fullfilling of his promise in sanding the holy Ghost upon his Apostles by which thy Likewise wrought miracles and even confermed by imposition of hands the same holy Ghost on others I say are not these evidences sufficient to require a believe from the most sceptical man on earth a believe of what a belief that the blessed Jesus is the messiah the Christ the son of God in so high degree that no creature ever was such: it had been Good for Christendom if the Christyans Creed had stopt here for all Christians believe this it is wonderful that we protesttants that have protested against the errors of the church of rome shuld in controversies amoungst owr selfs touching religion for Love is the whole Commandement finally brethren what so ever things are true what so ever things are philip- honest what so ever things are just what so ever things are pure pians what so ever things are lovely whatso ever things are of Good 4:8 vrs report if there be any virtue and if there be any praise think on these things and you will find Love and true faith
